

Sharing Information for Wellbeing Hui

“Sharing Information for Wellbeing” are a series of hui (online and face-to-face), designed to start a korero on what you think the guidelines should be for organisations seeking to use and share individuals information for the Wellbeing for Māori . If you want to have your say visit:

www.tuhono.net

⇒ Complete the Online Survey, before 28 May '17

⇒ Register for an Online webinar, before 16 May '17

DATA FUTURES PARTNERSHIP

SOCIAL LICENSE: We are bringing together some great minds to be part of a national conversation about information and data use, with Māori from all across the country. As key Iwi representatives, Tūhono would like to extend the invitation to Iwi across the country to have their say about what the guidelines should be for organisations seeking to use and share individuals information. Iwi wellbeing is central to this korero, and your answers will help us to understand what guidelines need to be in place.

“What guidelines should Iwi follow when sharing the information of their people?”

Sharing Information for Wellbeing is a series of 5 face-to-face hui and 6 online webinar hui across the country that Tuhono is running for the Data Futures Partnership. The Data Futures Partnership is an independent body funded by the government, and it is made up of people from academic institutes, businesses, not-for-profit organisations and Iwi. It has been asked by the government to form a set of guidelines which outline ways that different organisations working with information and data can do so safely and in a way that contributes to the wellbeing of Māori and Aotearoa New Zealand.

www.datafutures.co.nz

The approach Tūhono have adopted, is through a unique Māori lens. To achieve this, we have used a Kaupapa Māori and a Wellbeing Framework. Take the opportunity now, to give your voice and have your say!

Hosted by Karen Vercoe and Kirikowhai Mikaere

DATA FUTURES PARTNERSHIP